INTRODUCTORY NOTE

This bibliography has been prepared by the Dag Hammarskjöld Library in order to satisfy the increased need for information relating to the New World Information and Communication Order. The bibliography is selective, but efforts have been taken to make it more comprehensive and useful by including not only materials available in the Library but also items from other sources. The bibliography is arranged in two parts, each of which contains entries under broad subject areas. Entries are alphabetically arranged, with selective annotations provided.

The first part lists references to books and articles in periodicals, some of which are available in more than one language edition.

The second part contains references to reports, studies, resolutions and other selected documents of organizations of the United Nations system, principally the United Nations and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. United Nations documents, though listed in English only, are available in other official languages of the Organization. Most of the specialized agency documents are also available in languages other than English.

This bibliography incorporates and updates material included in an unpublished bibliography prepared by the Library in June 1981, the second portion of which was published under the symbol RBS/BIBL/SER.A/2.
